3543 Patient-Centered Contraceptive Counseling (PCCC) measure

- Measure Steward: University of California, San Francisco
- Brief Description of Measure:
  - ▣ The PCCC is a four-item patient-reported outcome performance measure (PRO-PM) designed to assess the patient-centeredness of contraceptive counseling at the individual clinician/provider and facility levels of analysis.
- Summary of Comments Received: [21 comments; 17 in support]
  - ▣ No measure for inquiring about a patient's history of family planning, or respect for pregnancy intendedness
  - ▣ No inclusion of information on a situation where a patient would like to become pregnant
  - ▣ Survey Point 4 language implies the provider has all knowledge and expertise needed for the patient to make the 'best' decision
  - ▣ Limited description of the diversity within study samples
  - ▣ Submission is not explicit about the inclusion of marginalized communities in the development of this measure
